

Southern California Writers Association

Membership Renewal/New Member Form

The Southern California Writers Association is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to helping writers of all genres, ages, and levels hone their skills and advance their careers. Members network and share vital information at meetings on the third Saturday of every month. Our members are a supportive community of active writers, published authors, screenwriters, and publishing professionals committed to helping lovers of books, writing, and publishing achieve their goals and dreams.

Membership Benefits

- A 30% discount on admission to SCWA meetings, which includes an all-you-can-eat lunch. Attend these mini-writer's conferences every month to improve your craft and learn from bestselling authors, professional journalists, screenwriters, mystery writers, poets, and highly sought-after instructors.
- Recognition for member achievements at meetings and in the newsletter.
- Monthly opportunities to network with publishing pros, journalists, business and PR writers, editors, and published and unpublished authors in all stages of the writing journey.
- Participation in SCWA marketing platforms on SouthernCalWriters.org and SCWA social media platforms.
- Access to up-to-date and cutting-edge articles on the craft and the business of publishing.
- Members-only special events, workshops, and programs.
